Another alternative for Drinkwater Road

Bay council approves proposal for medical office district

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay St. Louis City Council has proposed another special zoning for the section of Drinkwater Road across from Hancock Medical Center.

The council has previously attempted to set up a special use zoning across Drinkwater from the hospital, but a proposal that would have allowed clinics and medical laboratories as well as various types of doctors' offices was defeated after residents of the affected area protested.

The area is currently R-1, which allows only single-family residences.

Under the new proposal presented by Councilman James Thriftley III, the special zoning would be called MO-1, or Medical Office District.

The MO-1 proposal is more restrictive than the R-1, or Hospital-Clinic District, that was approved for Hancock Medical Center itself.

MO-1, if added to the Bay St. Louis zoning ordinance, would allow offices for various types of doctors, including medical practitioners, chiropractors, psychologists and psychiatrists and others, Thriftley said.

According to the council motion approved Monday to authorize the Planning and Zoning Board to begin procedures for adding the new classification, "a more restricted special zoning would be less objectionable to the area residents, more compatible with the existing neighborhood and yet could still accomplish the original intended purpose for the special use district."

Thriftley's motion also stated, "...the purpose for the special use zoning was to accommodate both the need for support facilities for the new hospital and the inevitable change in the neighborhood which would result from the location of the new hospital facility."

The motion also requests that the R-1 area fronting on Drinkwater be considered for change to the new classification.

Council Attorney John Scarffe Jr. stated that the new classification would allow R-1 usage to continue in addition to the new uses, and would not be considered discriminatory.

In other business Tuesday, the council:

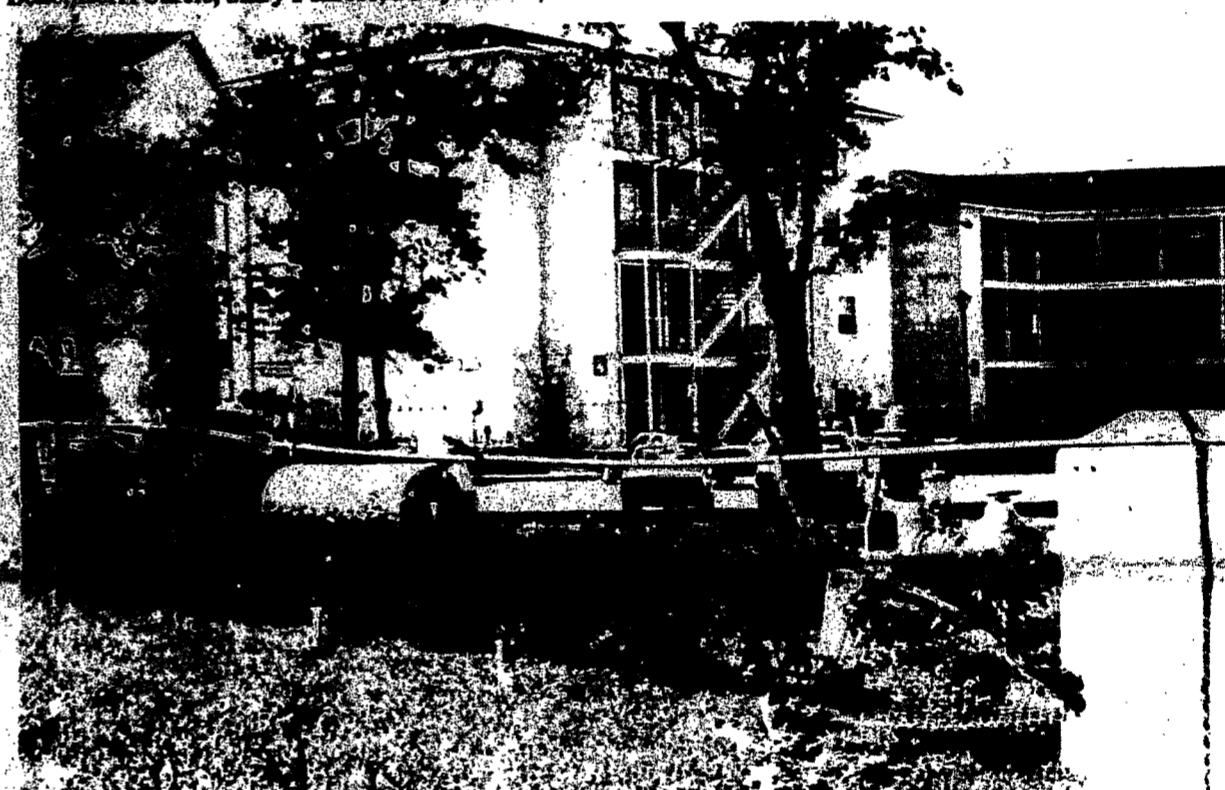

- Agreed to provide Hancock County with half the funds needed to overlay Drinkwater Road while delaying a similar project on Ramoneda Street;
- Agreed to provide $9,941 in matching funds for the Hancock County Library System, which has already obtained matching money from WaveLand and Hancock County, for a $52,983 State Library Commission grant for expansion of the system's central office;
- Accepted bids on bunker gear for the city fire department and radios for the police department's mobile units;
- Authorized Scarffe to obtain an attorney general's opinion on how the city should convey part of an

NEAR MISS—Chlorine tank servicing a water well at Village Condominiums in Henderson Point is visible through a hole ripped in a fence by a vehicle that went off US-90 Friday night, injuring driver Albert Ashworth of Bay St. Louis and damaging a water pump next to the tank. Nearby, Benjamin Raymond Geraghty Jr. of Long Beach died in a two-vehicle accident at the Ponce de Leon Drive intersection Sunday. Condominiums manager Georgetown Torgerson said the fence, located on a curve at the base of the railroad overpass, has been repaired six times and that accidents occur almost weekly. "The people getting killed are all local people who know this road, which shows something's wrong," Torgerson said. She said condominium owners have appealed to Southern District Highway Commissioner Bob Joiner for a barrier to protect the fence without results and now plan to use pilings set in concrete to protect the chlorine tank, adding that chlorine is dangerous and nearby residents will probably have to be evacuated if the tank is ever hit. I-10 major corridor for drug traffic between Texas and Florida

Attorney General Ed Pittman has been named to a drug commission that faces to strengthen coordination between Mississippi and Alabama in drug enforcement efforts.

The commission, initiated by Alabama Attorney General Don Siegelman, met Wednesday in Tuscaloosa. Attending with Pittman will be AG investigators Richard Hopkins and Hal Hatchford and Dan Davis, assistant director of the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics.

Pittman noted that Interstate 10 has become a major corridor for drug traffic between Florida and Texas, and drugs are also moving between the states at other interstate highways.

Pittman sponsored a bill which was passed into law during the last session of the Legislature which allows judges to deny bail to drug dealers and other felons after they have been convicted, while an appeal is pending. "One of the major problems," he said, "has been that big-time drug dealers don't worry about large bond. No matter what the bail is, they pay it and go about their business."

The new law, which goes into effect July 1, allows the judge to hold any convicted felon without bond on a finding that he is a danger to the community or that he is unlikely to show up to serve his sentence. "This is the drug dealer," Pittman said. "He is unlikely to return to be taken to prison, and he is certainly a danger to the community."

A proposal for a constitutional amendment to allow judges to use the same factors to deny bail to felons prior to trial will be on the November ballot. Under present law, judges may deny bail prior to trial only in capital cases.

"We believe when word gets around that drug dealers can no longer make bond and go on their way, that they go directly to jail and stay there, they will think twice about using our state as a main drug route," Pittman said.

New Aegis cruiser to be christened Lake Champlain

The third U.S. Navy surface warship to be named in commemoration of a pivotal battle fought in New York State during the War of 1812 will be christened at Ingalls Shipbuilding Division of Litton here at 11 a.m. on Saturday, April 25.

The ship, to be officially named Lake Champlain (CG 57), is the tenth of 15 Aegis guided missile cruisers under contract to Ingalls by the Navy.

Principal speaker for the christening ceremony, to be held in the company's west bank shipyard, will be The Honorable Everett Pyatt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Shipbuilding and Logistics. Mrs. Pyatt has been chosen as the ship's sponsor and will break the traditional bottle of champagne across the cruiser's bow.

Miss Jennifer Lynn Pyatt and Miss Laura Rebecca Pyatt, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pyatt, will serve as Maids of Honor.

Lake Champlain is the sixth U.S. warship to be equipped with the MK 41 Vertical Launching System (VLS), a multiwarfare missile launching system capable of firing a mix of missiles against airborne, surface and underwater threats.

It is modular in design with modules symmetrically grouped to form launcher magazines, located both fore and aft on the ship's deck. Each module contains all the necessary components for launching functions when interfaced with Lake

Champlain's Aegis Combat System.

Other participants in Saturday's program will include: The Honorable Trent Lott, House Republican Whip and Mississippi's Fifth District Representative; Vice Admiral William H. Rowden, USN, Commander, Naval Sea Systems Command; Vice Admiral George Davis, USN.

Florida authorities apprehend Waveland armed robbery suspect

BY DENA B. WHITE
Florida authorities have apprehended a man wanted in Waveland on armed robbery charges in connection with an April 5 hold-up at National Supermarket in Our Shopping Center.

According to Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn, Kenneth M. Rose, 42, was arrested by Escambia County Sheriff's Department officers Monday.

Dorn said extradition is unlikely any time soon because Rose is wanted on several charges, mostly armed robbery, in Oregon, Washington and Idaho as well as Florida.

In addition, Rose is wanted by federal authorities, the chief stated. Waveland police put together a composite sketch and description of the person who robbed National, whose identity at that time was not known. Dorn said Rose was identified last week after a similar robbery at the Biloxi Delchamps.

At National, the robber allegedly purchased a package of cigarettes that asked for his identification. He then reportedly informed cashiers that he wanted to rob them and displayed a small handgun believed to be a .25 caliber automatic pistol.

At Biloxi, the robber also asked for the manager, and apparently used the same weapon, Dorn said. In both cases, only cash was taken.

Harrison County authorities supplied a copy of a Mississippi driver's license that was used to confirm the identity of the suspect, who had been staying in Biloxi with a relative, the chief added.

Everyone appears to be going on a diet after eating all of the Easter goodies last weekend. All of the candies really work on folks who try to maintain their weight.

Fortunate are those who can eat anything and not gain an ounce. It seems I have passed that stage a long time ago, as now it seems I can look at food and feel a weight increase.

There appeared to have been a large group of visitors over for last weekend and everyone seemed to have enjoyed themselves.

I hope you had a good Easter weekend.

Don't forget the Fourth Annual Special Olympics sponsored by the Navy and NSTL scheduled for Saturday.

Competitors from Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River, Jackson and Stone Counties will be vying in the day-long events.

We know the sponsors and volunteers will also enjoy themselves as well as the competitors.

If you can help, it will really be appreciated.

Speed limit increases on certain Mississippi Interstate Highways have been approved by the State Highway Commission.

This is part of the recent Federal Aid Highway Act which authorized raising speed limits on rural interstates to 65 mph.

Interstate 10 which slices the southern half of Hancock County is one of the highways with a speed increase.

Information which we have received will mean a strict enforcement of the speed limit by the Mississippi Highway Patrol.

We know most motorists traveling at the 55 mph speed limits on interstates felt like every car on the highway would pass them.

The 65 mph limit is to be enforced very strictly in Mississippi and we hope everyone will observe the law.

In Hancock County we have more than our share of accidents on our highways and many lead to fatalities. We are hoping the increase in speeds will not increase the number of accidents.

Please drive carefully.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

I recently had an interesting meeting with William von Raab, the commissioner of customs for the United States. He told me a lot about what customs is doing in Mississippi in drug interdiction and in monitoring activity at our ports.

The Customs Service is the oldest of all the federal agencies. The fifth act of the First Congress, passed in 1789, actually established customs districts and authorized customs officers to collect duties on goods, wares and merchandise.

The Customs Service collects revenues from imports and is specifically charged with assessing and collecting customs duties, excise taxes, fees and penalties on drug and hazardous substance prohibitions.

A growing role of the Customs Service, however, is in drug interdiction. That is why I was so pleased to join with the Customs Service late last year in announcing that Harrison County had been selected as the base for the "Blue Lightning Strike Force."

Blue Lightning is a multi-agency drug interdiction team which will combine federal funding and very sophisticated radar equipment with the resources of our local law enforcement agencies to combat drug trafficking in the Gulf of Mexico.

In the past we have not always had the proper coordination and communication between the various federal agencies and local law enforcement agents in drug interdiction, particularly on the Gulf Coast.

Blue Lightning will bridge that communications gap involving the Customs Service, the Coast Guard, the military, our own county and local law enforcement agencies and those in Alabama and Louisiana.

Similar drug programs have worked very effectively in Florida and Texas, and there are other economic benefits to be realized by our area as well.

Blue Lightning will mean additional customs agents for Mississippi, increased activity for the Coast Guard and more funding for our law enforcement personnel.

All in all, this federal/state partnership in the war on drugs will be very positive for the development of South Mississippi.

Again with an eye on Mississippi, the Customs Service has provided the Harrison County Sheriff's JACKSON—Four anti-business provisions in the 1800 state constitution which for years have been cited by constitution critics as justification for writing a new document will be put on the November general election ballot for repeal or revision.

The recently ended session of the Legislature approved four resolutions containing the proposed amendments to the state constitution in a last-minute package of business law changes. It passed shortly before adjournment.

Contained in a package of recommendations made by a business law reform task force named by Secretary of State Dick Molpus, the four proposed amendments would:

—Modify Section 178 to remove the long-standing restriction that no private corporation may be chartered for more than 99 years unless additional taxation is levied on corporations chartered for more than 99 years.

—Repeal Section 194 which mandates cumulative voting for directors and prohibits issuance of non-voting common stock.

—Repeal Section 189 which requires filing of articles of incorporation with the chancery clerk in counties where a business is located.

—Repeal Section 196 which prohibits transportation corporations from issuing stocks or bonds without receiving money, property or labor in return.

Significantly, the amendment to Section 178 does not remove the power given the Legislature by the old constitutional provision to "alter, amend or repeal" any charter of incorporation now existing, a power some long-time critics have charged could be abused by lawmakers.

During the height of the segregation insanity that gripped the state during the 1960s, some legislators had threatened to use the power to abolish Little Tougaloo College, a privately chartered institution, which was used as a base for civil rights activists.

But the constitution provision does contain a caveat that revocation of a corporate charter must be in the public interest and that "no injustice shall be done to the stockholders."

Some authorities say that this would give adequate protection in the courts to any corporation which might be singled out by the Legislature for revocation of its charter.

William Painter, a Jackson attorney who headed the secretary of state's task force on the business law changes, said he felt submitting the four constitutional amendments "does not lessen in any way" the need for a complete rewrite of the state constitution.

"I think it just shows how many things need to be done to the constitution. These are just four little technical points that are being addressed in the amendments," Painter declared.

Surprisingly, both the pro-constitutional convention forces and the anti-convention forces had joined in backing the four amendments in their final clearance of the Legislature.

The old provisions in the constitution had been the result of the agrarian anti-corporation sentiment which existed in Mississippi toward the end of the last century. These forces were well represented in the writing of the 1800 document, even though the basic premise of the constitutional convention back then was to eliminate blacks from the political process.

Besides the constitutional amendments, the 1987 Legislature had approved six statutory changes in corporation laws proposed by the task force.

"These six bills provide a fine-tuning of the state business laws that will give us more flexibility and provide a modern vehicle for both small or large businesses to meet their own needs, as well as looking after the public welfare," Painter said.

One law change for instance will permit one person to create a corporation with himself as the only director. Existing corporation law requires at least three directors.

Another will significantly modernize the limited partnership law which now goes back to 1916. "This should have a lot of appeal to people in the oil and gas and real estate businesses," Painter declared.

"What we've tried to do is send a message to business that they do not have to go outside the state to Delaware or Tennessee to incorporate, that we have everything they need here in Mississippi."

From Mississippi Economic Council

A NEW BEGINNING IN ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Mississippi, the nation's pioneer in industrial development, may soon be in a position to lead America's economic development efforts into the final decade of the century.

Just over fifty years ago Mississippi created its nationally recognized "Balance Agriculture With Industry" Program, a program which turned Mississippi around economically as it came out of the depression years and which served as an early model for most of the other states.

Somewhere along the way Mississippi lost its competitive edge; economically it slumped back into the heat of lifelessness.

Now we may do something about that. The Legislature, largely under the determined leadership of Senate Finance Committee Chairman Bob Montgomery, has mandated the creation of an economic development plan for the state.

There is more than just a plan. The Legislature calls for creation of a public/private task force, it assigns specific responsibilities to the state's Department of Economic Development and the Research and Development Center. It mandates creation of economic goals and it provides for systematic evaluation and accountability among public agencies involved in the economic development process.

This could be a new beginning for Mississippi.

An Overview of the 1984-1988

Legislative Term

Mississippi House of Representatives

By Andrew Reese

House Information Officer

JACKSON—A series of measures promoting economic development including the acclaimed 1984 Business Investment Act...

Largest pay raises for school teachers in state history; statewide implementation of public kindergarten...

The state's first major highway program since 1977...

A massive reorganization of state boards and commissions...

These were among the many complex issues faced by Mississippi legislators in 1984-1988 during a time when the state, like most areas of the nation, was troubled by severe budget problems, economic uncertainty and high unemployment.

A special report released in April, 1987, detailed the shift in the state's economy from the rapid growth of the late 1970s to a much slower pace in the 1980s. Prepared by the Mississippi Research and Development Center, the report declares:

"Events beyond the state and national borders are the primary reasons for both the strong economic performance of the late 1970s and the slow growth of the 1980s. The state's economic performance has been heavily influenced by world commodity prices, international trade patterns, new technology, and the national business cycle."

Despite these problems, over which analysts say the state had little control, an impressive number of new or expanded programs won legislative approval, the state's financial integrity was protected, essential services were maintained, and laws were enacted involving such vital areas as education, health care, transportation, prison crowding, industrial growth, agriculture, and insurance.

The opening session in 1984 brought a sweeping overhaul of state boards and commissions, including abolishment of the old Budget Commission. The responsibilities of the Budget Commission were transferred to a newly created Joint Legislative Budget Committee and a three-member Fiscal Management Board headed by the Governor.

The wide-ranging legislation, enacted in response to a Supreme Court mandate, also eliminated such boards as the Building Commission and Medicaid Commission, shifting their operations to the Governor's office. Others including the state Personnel Board and Central Data Processing Authority were reorganized.

Other highlights in 1984 included an increase in workers' compensation benefits, a crackdown on parental kidnapping, a bill doing away with the controversial "dual registration" system which had required voters to register at city hall for municipal elections and the county courthouse for other elections, and an act to combat racketeering by making it unlawful in Mississippi for racketeers to invest money obtained from illegal activities.

Among the big issues in 1986 was teachers' pay. A compromise bill was passed providing a $4,400 salary hike for teachers over a three-year period with a $2,400 raise in 1986-87, another $1,000 increase in 1987-88, and the final $1,000 raise in 1988-89. It was the largest salary increase in state history for teachers. The last $1,000 increase was tied to a performance-based compensation plan developed by the State Board of Education.

Revenue provisions to help fund the teacher pay package included new or increased taxes on such items as beer, cigarettes, liquor, soft drinks, computer software, manufacturing machinery, construction contracts and private motor vehicle sales.

In other areas, legislation was enacted in 1985 to establish a soil and water conservation cost-share program, provide for regulation of the state's groundwater supplies, grant Home Rule for municipalities, and increase payments to school districts in the Chickasaw County area. Lawmakers voted to raise the legal age for beer and light wine from 18 to 21, effective in October 1988, and adopted stronger penalties for sale of alcoholic beverages to minors.

Financial problems made the 1988 session one of the most difficult in modern times, forcing budget cuts for many agencies and institutions. Even with the money crunch, however, it was an exceptionally productive session.

Pascagoula and Boeing Aircraft plant in Greenville. A uniform school laws bill was passed; a $40 million appropriation was approved to implement a statewide kindergarten program; a major revision of state voting laws was enacted, including a requirement that all counties have some type of automatic voting devices by 1990; the state's old Blue Laws were repealed, leaving a decision on Sunday sales at the local level.

A number of constitutional amendments were adopted including gubernatorial succession, reducing assessment ratios on residential property, and extending the maximum term for leasing 10th Section School land.

In 1987, a major highway program was enacted despite a gubernatorial veto. Major changes were approved in state insurance laws and a rural risk underwriting pool was established to help people in rural areas obtain adequate insurance protection.

Modest increases in funding were approved, without a general tax increase, for public schools, higher education, junior colleges, Medicaid, mental health and other vital programs. And some key changes in House rules were adopted, including creation of the office of Speaker Pro Tempore and restructuring the House Management Committee.

The Business Investment Act was hailed by Economic Development officials as a landmark piece of legislation to stimulate economic growth. Other major legislation to promote the economy, create jobs and improve the state's business climate including the statewide banking law passed in 1986; a package of bills in 1987 to update Mississippi's business laws; the 1987 highway program; several bills clearing the way for the Navy base port on the Gulf Coast; a strategy for Economic Development and Planning Act approved in 1987; the establishment of the Mississippi Development Bank to assist local governments in bond sales; and a new program authorized in 1987, and expanded two years later, to assist in the development of small business in Mississippi.

Lawmakers approved funding for a Technology Transfer Center in Hancock County and the innovative Institute of Technology Development, a private nonprofit agency working to bring high-tech industry to Mississippi.

Special tax incentives were granted in 1984 to assist in the growth of advanced technology businesses. The Research and Development Center was authorized to develop business "incubation" centers to assist fledgling businesses.

Several measures involving education won legislative approval in addition to the 1985 teacher pay raises and the uniform school laws bill of 1986. Lawmakers voted in 1987 to speed up the compulsory attendance law, raising the mandatory attendance age to 16 by 1989-90.

A special school was approved for gifted math and science students. A new bond issue was set up to oversee junior colleges operations. A constitutional amendment was adopted creating an educational trust fund.

The Legislature authorized a $54.6 million bond issue in 1987 to finance prison construction including two 55-man maximum security units at Parchman and a 140-man medium security facility in Greene County. Other steps to cope with the problem of prison crowding included a 1986 law giving emergency powers to the Governor to grant early releases under certain conditions, and reenactment in 1987 of some earlier laws providing an alternative to incarceration for selected, non-violent first offenders. Lawmakers voted in 1988 to prohibit possession of money orders by state prison inmates, and approved some key administrative changes in 1988 in the Department of Corrections, including creation of the office of superintendent to take charge of Parchman.

A reorganization of health care services was approved in the 1988 session. Legislation was passed in the 1988 session to update the state's health care laws, including the creation of a health care planning council. The council will be responsible for coordinating health care services and planning for the future. The council will also be responsible for reviewing and recommending changes in health care laws and regulations. The council will be composed of representatives from the state's major health care providers, including hospitals, health plans, and health care professionals. The council will report its findings and recommendations to the Governor and the Legislature.

The Health Board to develop a regionalized system of perinatal services.

A Farm Reform Act was passed in 1987 in an attempt to offer some help to the state's hard-pressed farmers. The legislation provides for a voluntary debt mediation program, a clearing house of information for farmers, and an "emerging crops" plan to encourage development of such crops as blueberries, muscadine and Christmas trees.

Other significant legislation over the four years ranged from a 1984 bill to revise homestead exemption laws to the 1987 measures to help protect the rights of crime victims; from bills to extend sovereign immunity protecting governmental units from costly damage suits to legislation extending a housing loan program for prospective home buyers; from bills upgrading the offices of county coroner and county constable to bills for redistribution of revenues from the Grand Gulf nuclear plant in Calhoun County and TVA in-lieu payments in north Mississippi.

Laws were passed to combat child abuse, protect "vulnerable" adults, provide visitation rights for grandparents, fund a state nursing home for veterans, regulate credit life insurance, update accounting procedures for municipal and county governments, require a hunter education course to buy hunting licenses, make English the state's "official" language, designate Rev. Martin Luther King's birthday as a state holiday, and provide a free day of fishing on the 4th of July.

It was a busy four years. Submitted by Representative Walter J. Phillips

Hazardous waste seminars scheduled

A seminar on hazardous waste in used oils and fuels will be presented in Mobile today beginning at 8 a.m.

For those who find it more convenient, two sessions will be held in Mississippi at Mississippi State University on May 13 and in Jackson on May 14.

The seminars, presented in cooperation with the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources and Auburn University, are sponsored by Region IV of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Since 1980 the used oil industry has become an increasingly regulated field, with extremely complex regulations, difficult to understand and put into practice.

This seminar is designed to help those attending understand and make specific application of the regulations relative to his individual business.

This knowledge will greatly enhance his capability in the future management of used oils in an environmentally and economically sound manner.

The course is designed for all generators, marketers, collectors, processors, and burners of used oils and fuels. Persons involved in any way with used oils and fuels must be aware of the consequences of environmental pollution and regulatory non-compliance.

This seminar will provide very helpful information to those who desire to develop good used oil management and waste reduction practices.

Seminar leaders are Dr. A. Ray Tarrer and Hugh Fellows. Tarrer is professor of chemical engineering at Auburn University, and Fellows is the co-director and engineer-in-charge of the Auburn Waste Oils Laboratory, an experimental used oil reprocessing facility at Auburn.

The cost of the seminar is $20 which includes all materials, lunch, and coffee breaks. Because of limited seating, advance registration is recommended.

For registration forms and more information contact Jack McCord, Bureau of Pollution Control, Box 10385, Jackson, MS 39209, or telephone 961-5171.

Serving chicken often is one of the best - and tastiest - ways I know to fight inflation and cut the food bill without sacrificing flavor and nutrition.

And there are so many variations on the theme - just use your imagination and reach for whatever's on hand, and come up with a tasty dish. And, as you well know, leftover chicken is the basis for many a delicious entree.

I like to roast a chicken, whole, with bits of orange, apple, crabapple, and such stuffed into the cavity; at other times, when I'm more ambitious and want to "stretch" the dish, I mix up an oyster stuffing, or corn bread, or a rice dressing, - all delicious.

At other times, I like to bake chicken quarters (or, when I'm splurging, chicken breasts) atop a bed of shrimp and sausage jambalaya, with a shrimp or crawfish sauce atop - but that's not everyday fare around my house, you may be sure!

For a quick dish for company or for everyday, brown a cut up chicken, adding onions, green onions and seasoning, and either fresh or canned peeled tomatoes, simmer till tender, and serve over rice.

But, let's consider one of my all-time favorites, which has been a standby for years. Here's:

CHICKEN AND ARTICHOKE
2 whole chicken breasts, split, skin removed
3 to 4 carrots, sliced
1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced
1 (14 oz.) can artichoke hearts, drained and halved

1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/2 cup green onion, chopped
1 1/2 cups chicken broth
1/2 cup sherry or white wine
2 Tbsp. cornstarch
Pepper, salt to your taste
A bit of fresh or dried thyme, if you like it.

Brown the chicken in the hot oil, in a large skillet, of course, then simmer, covered, for five minutes or so. Add the mushrooms and artichoke hearts, along with the green onions and seasonings, and simmer for 10 minutes. If you're using thyme, add at this point.

In a small sauce pan, mix together the broth, sherry and cornstarch, stirring well, and cook over low to medium heat, stirring constantly, until it thickens.

Place the chicken and vegetables in a greased, shallow baking dish, and pour the sauce over, then bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes or so, until done, basting from time to time with the pan drippings. (Six servings.)

Senator Taylor to play Bienville in Ocean Springs ceremonies

Col. Charles Taylor, chief executive officer of the Mississippi State Department of Natural Resources, will play the role of Pierre LeMoyne, Sieur d'Iberville, at the 300th anniversary of his landing at the site of present day Ocean Springs April 24, 25 and 26.

Senator Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis will play the part of d'Iberville's brother, Sieur de Bienville, and other prominent citizens of the community will play the roles of those involved in the historic landing party. All participants will be in full 17th century costume.

Francis Bartlett, president of the 1699 Historical Committee, states, "We believe that d'Iberville's landing and founding of a French colony on the Mississippi Gulf Coast ranks in historical importance with the founding of the Massachusetts Bay colony at Plymouth Rock and the Virginia colony at Jamestown, as it is from these three colonies that America has grown. Our committee is making every effort to establish the importance of this site, known as Fort Maurepas, both state and national wide."

To celebrate the date and bring it to the attention of the public, the Historical Committee each year sponsors a 3-day celebration. In Ocean Springs, the highlights being the reenactment of the landing on the beach, with participants in 17th century costume on Sunday, April 24, and a Grand Parade at 2:30 p.m.

Another major event is the Grand Ball and Banquet which takes place Saturday evening, April 25, with participants in full costume. Merchants Day, School Day and a Family Reunion on Friday, April 24, kick off the celebration.

A street fair sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce will be on all day Saturday, April 25, a needlework exhibit, the Cassette Girls, and a Pet and Costume Parade sponsored by the local Duchess Club. A mass will be held at Fort Maurepas on Sunday morning, April 26, followed by the Landing Reenactment in the afternoon and the Grand Parade.

"There's something here for everyone. It's a very colorful affair," stated Bartlett, "and we are looking for more and more visitors each year. The significance of this historic place is known to the country. Fort Maurepas, as the site is known, was the initial landing of the French on the Gulf Coast and up the Mississippi from whence the French culture was spread throughout the southern coast of our country and northward. The 300th Anniversary will soon be upon us, and we hope by that time to have Fort Maurepas completed and a significant monument erected on the beach. The Mississippi Department of Archives and History is planning a proper monument to commemorate this important local history, and we hope that by our 300th Anniversary the whole country will know about our historic site."

A schedule of events or further information may be obtained from the Ocean Springs Chamber of Commerce, 601-475-4424, or from Bartlett, 601-575-3978.

Bay school board grants continuance of teacher hearing

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board has granted a continuance of a teacher non-reemployment hearing pending obtaining of a restraining order being sought by the teacher's attorney.

According to Board Attorney Lucien Gex, the continuance goes through Monday, when the final non-reemployment hearings are scheduled at 6 p.m.

Gex said the attorney, John Deakle of Hattiesburg, had indicated that he wished to obtain the order through U.S. Southern District Court in Biloxi to keep the board members from acting as hearing officers.

Deakle, who represents teacher Lana Jones, contends that the board can not render a fair and impartial decision with regard to her non-reemployment because the board made the initial decision not to extend her contract.

Under Mississippi law, the school board must hold the hearings but can appoint a hearing officer.

The matter was held in open session rather than closed to the public at Jones' request, the board attorney said.

Slidell Memorial Hospital is sponsoring seminar on Cancer and Women

Cancer affects both men and women, but women encounter special concerns. Cancer of the breasts and reproductive organs, including cervical and uterine cancers, affect women only.

During Cancer Control Month, Slidell Memorial Hospital is presenting "Cancer and Women," a program designed to explain the different types of cancer that affect women. The seminar also will give women valuable information that will help them become aware of the risks and warning signs of cancer.

The seminar will be held Thursday, April 30, at noon in the Women's Resource Suite at Slidell Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Arthur Caire will lead the discussion and will explore pap smears, laser surgery, endometrial carcinoma prevention and the safety of estrogen use during menopause.

Daily eating habits can also affect women's chances of developing cancer. The important role that diet plays in preventing cancer will be discussed by Paula Brown, MS, RD, chief clinical dietitian at Slidell Memorial Hospital. She will talk about recent developments in nutritional prevention of cancer.

Debra May, area coordinator of the Reach for Recovery program also will talk about the activities of this volunteer group that visits women before and after surgery. Reach for Recovery is a group sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

For more information, or to register for this seminar, call 646-0560.

USM Sports Hall of Fame to induct fine this week

HATTIESBURG—Four former football standout and ex-star golfer have been chosen for induction into the University of Southern Mississippi Sports Hall of Fame.

The ex-griders are Troy Craft, Amos Fowler, Bobby Posey and Bob Stevens, and the former linkman is Billy Applewhite.

Their election by a secret selection committee of the sponsoring USM M Club Alumni Association was announced by association president Earl Marshall of Jackson and president-elect Hamp Cook of Hattiesburg.

Simultaneously, immediate past-president P.W. Underwood of Hattiesburg said that former football star Carl Allen, chosen two years ago but unable to attend induction ceremonies then or last year because of pro football commitments, has said he will be here for this year's ceremonies.

So, the Hall of Fame's membership will increase by six at next week's 23rd annual USM Sports Hall of Fame and Awards Ceremonies.

The event, co-sponsored by the Alumni M Club and Deposit Guaranty National Bank, will be held in the banquet facilities of the Hattiesburg Coca-Cola Center. Set for 7 p.m., Friday, April 24, it will be open to active M Club Alumni Association members, M Club Associates, and invited guests.

Allen, a Hattiesburg High School product who began his USM career as a "walk-on" and went on to win three varsity letters before he was an 11th-round NFL draft choice, is now a resident of St. Louis and teaching school there. Underwood drafted him and traded him to the St. Louis Cardinals. After several years of stardom with the Cards, he played in the USFL.

Applewhite, also a Hattiesburg native who lettered in golf, football and basketball (HHS), was a four-year golf letterman (1962-65-66-67) under coach Roy Van Hook at USM. The 6-foot-11, 140-pounder and was the 1964-65 USFL champion and the 1966 club repeated as state champion. In 1964 he was also the 1964-65 USFL champion and the 1966 club repeated as state champion. In 1964 he was also the 1964-65 USFL champion and the 1966 club repeated as state champion.

Returned professional in 1966-67, Applewhite played for the Hattiesburg Hawks in the Gulf Coast League. He was a two-time All-Star (1966-67) and a three-time MVP (1966-67-68). He was also a two-time USFL champion (1964-65, 1966-67) and a three-time MVP (1966-67-68). He was also a two-time USFL champion (1964-65, 1966-67) and a three-time MVP (1966-67-68).

(1964-65-66) as a two-way end, came to Southern from Biloxi High, where he was a member of the 1962 state championship team. He played in the Blue and Gray All-Star game in 1966, the year the City of Biloxi honored him at its "Outstanding Sportsman of the Year." He has been in the military since 1968 and currently, as an Army lieutenant colonel, is an active duty advisor to the Mississippi Army National Guard in Hattiesburg.

Fowler, another who arrived at Southern as a "walk-on" before earning three letters and moving on to a highly successful career in the NFL, played guard, tackle and center on offense for USM. He played in 37 games for the Detroit Lions and started 46 of them.

He began his pro career as a guard and a member of special teams, and wound up being the team's No. 1 center. An all-city pick in Ft. Walton Beach, Fla., before joining USM, he now resides in Piquette, Miss. He commutes to Skidell, La., where he owns a construction business.

Posey, currently serving as a chancery clerk in his native Neshoba County in Mississippi following successful high school coaching career, was a three-year letterman (1951-52-53) on teams that had a 25-7 record in regular-season play. He also played in two Sun Bowl games.

His coaching record includes 156 wins, 81 losses and 6 ties, four conference championships and four bowl championships, in football, and 23 conference titles and 14 district championships, in track. He still lives in his native Philadelphia.

Stevens, a native of McComb, Miss., who spent his early years a short distance away in Hazlehurst, played two years at Copiah-Lincoln Junior College prior to his two-year career (1947-48) at USM. He was a tackle with devastating blocking ability and also a good leader for coach Reed Green in his final two seasons as USM coach.

As a teacher-coach at Pass Christian, Meadville and Central High and Murray High in Jackson, Stevens was effective in several sports. In football his teams posted a 151-73-6 record, and in five years as Central High basketball coach his teams won three city championships, three North Big Eight Conference titles and one overall Big Eight crown. He currently is in business in Jackson.

PRC sweeps series for week

The Pearl River College Wildcats continued their winning ways this past week by sweeping Jones, Southwest and Meridian.

The half-dozen wins put the Ned Eades-led 'Cats at 25-6 overall and 17-3 in the South Division. The Wildcats are still just one game back of the league-leading Hinds' Eagles.

On top this final week of regular season play are division contests against Co-Lin (Tuesday), Hinds and Utiaca. A make-up game with Gulf Coast will probably be scheduled for Saturday.

Against Hinds, the Wildcats ripped past the Eagles 4-1 in the first game with Hattiesburg's Mike Smeltzer nailing down to victory.

In the night-cap PRC came from a 3-1 deficit to take a 6-4 win over the Ellisville-based team.

Against Southwest Thursday, Chris Bates of Poplarville went 5-0 for the season with a 8-1 win and David Cowart, also of Poplarville, won with a 14-5 decision.

On Friday the Wildcats jumped to a quick 12-1 lead after three innings only to win by a slim 13-12 count. In the second game the role was reversed as PRC trailed 9-1 before winning 14-11.

Coach Eades said by this time next week the Wildcats should be in the state playoffs. "Our goal coming into today was to get 30 hits and score 15 runs in the second game. We came up one short there, but I knew we could win with 15 runs," said Coach Eades.

Eades said the win does give the Wildcats momentum going into an eight-game week, which includes a rained-out doubleheader at Hinds. "It's a great day for us. We have one more week in the season to go with eight games, and we needed the win for momentum."

In the two games Friday, Pearl River used three pitchers, as Mike Smeltzer took the victory in the first game while Cowart scored the win in the second.

Smeltzer, who Eades said is not used to the reliever role, acted as one for Cowart in both games, picking up a save in the second game. Cowart came in to relieve starter Brian Fontenot in the second game.

The reason Eades used just the three pitchers was because of nagging aches and pains to his other hurlers, including Cowart who had played in a doubleheader against Southwest Thursday.

"Our pitching staff was a little depleted today," Eades said in describing the pitching of the past week. "Smeltzer pitched the first game against Jones on Tuesday and got the win. Paul Dugle started the second game and Chris Bates finished it."

Against Southwest Thursday, Bates threw seven innings for the first win, while Chris Deshotel started and Cowart picked up the win in relief in the second game.

"Deshotel's back was hurting him today, so that left us with Smeltzer and Cowart, who both did very good jobs. And I was super proud of how the team hit the ball. They knew our pitching was down, so they made the bats come alive."

Alcan Steamers go 1 for 3 in Jackson tournament

The Alcan Steamers were in Jackson this weekend participating in their fourth and last invitational tournament of the season.

After tough losses to the Clinton Cosmos, 3-1 and Vicksburg Cannon, 6-3 the Steamers beat the Jackson Elite by a score of 2-1.

"The Elite were taking our team lightly, after having defeated the same two teams that beat us the previous day," said Tom Demboski.

"We caught them sleeping soon after the 3 a.m. Saturday kickoff and Shane Kowalski put in a quick shot off a long pass by Eddie Bourgeois," the coach noted.

The 1-0 lead held through the first half and well into the second when Bay St. Louis went ahead 2-0 on a penalty shot.

"At this point, with the Steamers beginning to tire, we went to an eight-man defense and held on for the 2-1 win," he added.

"Only 11 players made the trip; and, since the tournament allowed guest players, we pressed goalie Bart Brinkmeyer's brother Brian into service. Although only 14-years-old, Brian played superbly and was probably the key motivating factor in the big win," Demboski feels.

The Steamers have two weekends ahead to prepare for the qualifying tournament for the State Championships. The qualifying tournament will be played in Tupelo on May 9 and 10.

This Sunday they play a Lakeview (New Orleans) team at the Tulane field.

Then, on May 2 and 3, the team will play its last two home games of the season at the Seminary field at 2:30 p.m. Saturday's match is against Slidell and Sunday is a return engagement with Lakeview.

"We want to thank the team sponsors: Alcan Cable, McDonald Realty, Hancock Bank and Nationwide Insurance, for their support, and hope you can come out to see your team play these last two home games," the coach added.

Law Day USA May 1

What's the Law? Buying and Selling A Home

The purchase of a home is the biggest single investment that most Americans ever make; and, the sale of a home can result in the largest capital gains ever realized by many.

In order to make the most of this investment, buyers and sellers should be familiar with real estate procedures, financing methods, and the legal aspects of the purchase and sale.

Here are some common questions asked about real estate law:

Q: What are some of the points that a prospective homebuyer should consider about a potential home?

A: Many realtors answer that the three most important aspects of a home are location, location and location. This means the characteristics of the neighborhood; distance from schools, transportation, hospitals, police and fire protection, utilities, and shopping; quality of street maintenance; zoning; and tax levels.

Other considerations are the house's plumbing and wiring, drainage of the land, the house's location on the lot, construction of the house, and possible termite infestation.

Q: What are the different types of listing agreements that can be made with a real estate broker?

A: A listing agreement is a legal contract that governs such conditions as the broker's fee, the right of the seller to negotiate on his or her own behalf, and terms restricting rights to sell.

An open listing contract is a listing wherein the owner lists the property for sale with one broker, but reserves the right to list the property concurrently with as many additional brokers as desired. The seller will owe a commission only to the broker who procures a buyer.

Exclusive agency contracts employ one broker as the agent for the property for a definite period of time, but also allow the owner to sell directly without an obligation to pay a broker's commission.

An exclusive right to sell contract appoints one broker as sole agent for a specified period of time and entitles the broker to a commission if a property is sold by any party within the time limits.

Q: What should be stipulated in the sales contract?

A: The sales contract spells out the total purchase price and method of payment, including down payment, financing plans, closing costs and interest charges; what appliances, furnishings, fixtures and other personal property are being sold with the house; which of the parties bears the risk of loss if there is a fire or other disaster before the closing; when the responsibility shifts for payment of utilities and taxes; how taxes are to be prorated for the year when ownership shifts; guarantees of good title; provisions for either party to cancel the sale; legal description of the property; and, provision for the return of initial payment in the event the sale is not completed.

Q: Is it necessary for a lawyer to handle the sale or purchase of a house?

A: It is not required that a lawyer prepare the sale contract. However, since this agreement controls all future conduct in the sale, the time to seek expert advice is before the contract is signed. If this is not possible, the buyer or seller can insert on the face of the contract the phrase, "subject to approval of the attorneys for the parties" within a specified number of days.

In most states, only an attorney can prepare other legal documents related to a real estate sale. A single lawyer may represent both parties, with their understanding and consent.

Q: What kind of warranties on the roof, the furnace, appliances, or exterior paint should the buyer demand?

A: The seller probably will limit warranties of these items to avoid being liable for expensive repairs. However, the buyer should ask if warranties still exist on repairs that may have recently been done or on new items, and ask that these warranties be transferred to him or her.

Q: What precautions should the buyer take to be sure that title is conveyed without any problems?

A: The buyer will want to assume a title that is "marketable," that is, free from all indebtedness or limitations on its use. It is up to the buyer to examine the title. This should be done before the purchase is completed through a title search or examination of the public records by any attorney, who then issues a certificate indicating the finding or supplies a written title opinion.

Q: How do I know if there are limitations on the use of my property?

A: Local governmental zoning laws or restrictions in the deeds may limit the use of your property, for example, for use as a day-care center or conversion of a single-family dwelling to a two-family home.

You can determine these limitations by finding out the zoning restrictions from the city zoning board and having a lawyer examine deeds and other legal papers.

Q: What is title insurance and does a buyer need to purchase it?

A: If the buyer is obtaining a mortgage loan, the lender will require title insurance in the amount of the loan to protect itself from possible loss. This insurance, however, does not protect the new owner in the event that defects are found in the title. Owner's title insurance insures the new owner's equity in the property. It is optional.

Q: What are the different items that contribute to the total cost of a mortgage loan?

A: "Points." The lender makes a service charge for processing the loan that is expressed in "points." It is a percentage of the amount of the loan, varying from 1 1/2 to 3 percent.

*Appraisal fee. The lender usually will require appraisal of the property, either by an appraiser of the lender's choice whom it approves or by the bank appraiser. If the appraisal is done by the bank, the fee will be included in the loan.

*Survey cost. A survey of the property may be required by the lender.

*Escrow fees.

*Title insurance.

*Lender's attorney's fee.

Q: What are some of the new "creative financing" methods used that try to overcome high interest rates and high down payments?

A: Many of the so-called "creative financing" methods have been in use in different states for many years; others have only recently been approved by federal law and added to the list of alternative mortgage forms.

These include: contract sales, renegotiable rate mortgages, graduated payment mortgages, variable rate mortgages, and contingent interest mortgages. A buyer should be sure that he or she understands every aspect of these nonconventional mortgages before agreeing to one.

Q: How should a buyer take title?

A: Title may be taken by an individual or by two or more parties in joint ownership. If the parties are husband and wife, it is common to take as joint owners with right of survivorship, so that at the death of one party, title to the entire property vests with the survivor. However, estate taxes should be considered before deciding on this form of ownership.

Q: How does a condominium differ from a cooperative?

A: In a condominium, each owner holds title to his or her unit. With respect to common areas, unit owners may be tenants in common or joint tenants, depending on state law. A cooperative means stock ownership of a multi-unit project where buyer occupies but does not own the unit. The project is owned by a cooperative, of which all residents are shareholders, and is operated by an elected board of directors.

USM coach helps rewrite Red Cross manual

Three members of a select Red Cross research committee recently met at the University of Southern Mississippi to continue investigating new rescue methods designed to minimize or reduce the extent of swimming-related spinal injuries.

Kathryn Scott of the University of California at Berkeley, recreation consultant Lelia Vaughan of Jonesville, Texas, and USM swimming coach Mike Giles joined with several student volunteers in the USM Natatorium pool to "field-test" the new rescue methods and techniques.

"Generally, people don't know how to handle a swimmer with a spinal injury," Scott said. "They usually want to turn them over and get them out of the water as fast as they can, and that can compound the problem more often than not."

"We are testing the most efficient way to mobilize and stabilize the victim," Vaughan added. "We're looking for the techniques that are easy to learn and retain—techniques that we can teach to 'John Q. Public.'"

The USM work is part of a nationwide effort involving a 14-member committee of experts from various professional backgrounds. The project is sponsored by the Red Cross in an effort to rewrite its water safety manuals and to build a foundation for the promotion of public awareness campaigns.

"Being involved with the Red Cross is an honor," Giles said. "This project has allowed us here at USM to participate in a program with national impact. Our research will eventually contribute to improved safety measures that will be taught to lifeguards, other water safety personnel and to the general public, including owners of backyard pools."

Giles said he and other USM volunteers have been asked to participate further in the study, which will continue through May of this year.

USM works accepted

Books edited by two University of Southern Mississippi scholars have been accepted for summer publication by University Press of Mississippi.

"Along the RFD with Rose Budd Stevens," was compiled and edited by Dr. Beverly Maddox, program coordinator of the USM Office of Research and Sponsored Programs.

Dr. Jerold Waltman, a USM political science professor, co-edited, "Political Economy: Public Policies in the United States and Britain."

Maddox's book is a collection of writings by a Mississippi farm-life historian, who uses the pen name of Rose Budd. The work includes more than 40 years of anecdotes about canning, gardening, reunions, sewing, ing, farm chores, recipes, church-going, child-rearing, holiday celebrations and "good country people."

Waltman's book compares the economic policies of Western allies Margaret Thatcher and Ronald Reagan—focusing on such issues as industrial policy, labor market, taxation, energy, consumer protection, public pensions, health care and housing.

The book includes works by essayists John Robertson, Gary Freeman, David Robertson, Jeffery Freeman, Richard Flickinger and Nathan Schwartz. It was co-edited by Dr. Donley T. Studan, a professor of government at Centre College in Kentucky.

Plaquemines Christian Cowboys hogtie Coast Episcopal Raiders

The Coast Episcopal Raider boys softball team lost a hard fought game against the Plaquemines Christian Academy Cowboys Friday at Parker Memorial Field in Pass Christian.

The Raiders led most of the way until the top of the 5 inning when the Cowboys came alive and punched in 3 runs to take the lead for good. The Raiders had led 19 to 5 until that point, off the hitting of Sterling Thibodeaux, Jason Evans, Rea Montjoy, and Scott Covode.

This effort was not enough though as a tough Plaquemines team hit all the way around in the 5 inning and stopped the Raiders in the 6.

The Raiders first 3 batters, Rea Montjoy, Sterling Thibodeaux, and Jason Evans got singles, providing a bases loaded opportunity for Montjoy, Riggs, and Covode. Two fly balls to center and sharp bunt to second base accounted for the last 3 out for the Raiders who lost 14-10.

The Raiders now stand 1-1 in league play with an opportunity still to take it all in the Gulf States Conference Tournament scheduled for May 19 in New Orleans at the Harvey Playgound.

Bassin' with the pros

by Troy Forrester

How to make points with bass

One way to get real acquainted with an unknown lake is to fish its points—land "extensions" which gradually slope to great depths. These formations attract predatory heavyweights at the "right" levels. Finding the right level is the key to a productive day.

The smart fisherman will systematically separate that point into areas, with the first range being 5-10 feet, the next 10-20 feet, and so on. Different pros use different lures and techniques depending upon the water temperature and whether bass are holding in structure or are suspended.

"We usually start out with small baits, like a Fat Gibson or a hair jig with a U2 or U3 cod on it," states Guido Hibdon of the Johnson Outboards Pro Team. "Color really doesn't make a difference, but I prefer black, brown or purple. As things warm up a little bit, we'll start increasing the size of our baits and up through April I'll go to a rubber jig, usually a No. 11, and throw a crank bait some."

"You can put on a crank bait that will run 10 feet deep," Hibdon continues, "and cover a lot of ground. It's a good bait to find fish on and I like a Bomber Model A, and shad type or crawdad type color; or a Bagley Killer Bait 3, which is also a good choice is a number of colors such as a brown chartruese crawdad or your grey ghost colored Tennessee shad."

Jugging is also a technique which can produce many fish along a point. Lure selection for this can range from the worm, grub or spoon. But by far, the plastic worm seems to be the favorite here. The plastic worm can be a killer as it slowly slithers down the incline of the point, hitting rocks and other underwater ob-ture, or when freely falling from a ledge past lurking basses below.

On very windy days, a rule of thumb is to cast into the wind. That wind, as it chaps at the surface waters, creates a current and as we know bass face into currents. By casting into the wind, we'll be retrieving with the current instead of against it.

Another thing to remember about fishing points: Pros use spoons to locate bass and worms and jigs to nail them.

The Johnson and Evinrude service experts at OMC advise boaters to check the condition of the water pump on their outboard motor during the winter off-season, especially if you do much boating in shallow, sandy or murky water. Sand and grit encountered under these conditions can wear the rubber pump impeller and reduce pump efficiency. Excessive wear can lead to pump failure and overheating. Consult your owner's manual or your local dealer for instruction on inspecting the pump on your motor.

CONTINUED GROWTH—Bay-Waveland Goodyear Tire Company exhaust systems specialist Steve Landry, left, of Kill and Service Manager Dan Foy, also of Kill, check an installation at the company's new muffler department which features service for domestic and foreign autos, trucks of all sizes and buses. Since its founding by owner Carl Guy of Waveland in 1978, the company's service area at 605 US-90 East in Waveland has grown from its original three bays to the current ten, including service for trucks as large as 18-wheelers. Other expansions include addition of parts department, electronic appliance department, and enlarged warehousing capability. The new muffler shop includes four-post hydraulic lift, arc welding and pipe bending machines. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Cicada to make appearance this year

The 13-year periodical cicada should appear right on schedule later this year in east Mississippi, according to State Entomologist Jack Coley with the Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

"These cicadas don't wipe out crops, and they don't attack humans or animals as some people believe," said Coley. "Besides making a lot of noise, about the only effect they will have is to damage the tips of branches on deciduous trees and shrubs," he said. The damage can be caused from egg laying, especially on oak, dogwood and fruit trees. Little can be done to prevent injury.

Cicadas often are mistakenly referred to as locusts. For 13 years the cicada nymphs have been underground, slowly feeding on plant roots. The first part of May they will emerge from the soil, climb the nearest tree or post, shed their skins and mate.

A week or two later, they will lay eggs on the tips of branches and then die a few weeks later. In six to eight weeks the eggs will hatch and the new nymphs will enter the soil, to be seen again in the year 2000.

This year's cicada will be limited mostly to eastern Mississippi, from Tennessee to the Gulf Coast. Other broods of the cicada emerge at other times.

Ballet Magnificat to perform

Salomonson will be in the direction of Keith Johnson and Gregory E. Smith will present two free presentations at the 2008 Annual Meeting of the American Psychological Association, August 1-5, 2008, in San Francisco, CA. The presentations are: "The Role of the Journal of the American Psychological Association in the History of Psychology" and "The Role of the Journal of the American Psychological Association in the History of Psychology".

The program will feature two premieres and one film from the company's touring repertoire, and is Ballet Mississippi was founded last summer following Mr. Thalbot's resignation from Ballet Minnesota. The ballet company has a mission: to find and utilize her artistic talents in such a way as to glorify God and share her faith in Jesus Christ. The company now tours with eight dancers and has scheduled more than 50 performances from south Florida to Dallas, Texas.

The May program will include: "In Celebration of Creation" to music of John Michael Talbot; "The Calling," which is a dramatic piece done to music of Steve Fry and "Sandi-Songs" to music of contemporary Christian singer Sandi Patti, which has proved to be an audience favorite everywhere it has been performed.

According to choreographer Gregory B. Smith, the two new pieces will be some of the most challenging the company has done to date. " 'In Celebration of Creation' is probably the most physically demanding ballet we have ever done," said Smith, "and 'The Calling' will be unique in that it is choreographed to a combination of both music and narration."

The company is also taking an unprecedented step by not charging for tickets to a major performance. Said Ms. Thibodeaux, "We just didn't feel right about charging a price to share our love of God; so the doors will simply be open to any who wish to attend."

An offering will be taken during the program to help cover the expenses of performing.

Although admission is free, tickets are required to guarantee seating. These complimentary tickets are available at the Jubilee Jam office at 120 East Capitol Street in downtown Jackson, and at all Jackson Christian bookstores.

Livestock brand registration deadline approaches

JACKSON—Livestock owners in Mississippi who have brands registered with the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol are reminded that the deadline for reregistering is June 30.

Renewal notices have been mailed but many notices may have gone to incorrect addresses due to postal changes. The notices were mailed to persons who registered their brands five years ago which is the length of time the brands are kept on file before reregistration is required.

Capt. Joey Gonc, director of the Highway Patrol's Livestock Theft Branch of the Criminal Investigation Bureau added, "Owners are not required to brand livestock in Mississippi but are encouraged to do so since branded livestock often deter theft."

"If a brand is used by a livestock owner, it must be registered with us regardless of the number of livestock being branded," he said.

Owners who are branding their livestock with unregistered brands are in violation of state law, according to Gonc.

The fee for registering a brand is $5.

Persons needing more information may telephone the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol at 947-1572, Monday through Friday.

Self care children increasing in number

By Karen L. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

MISSISSIPPI STATE—With more single parents and working mothers, a growing number of children must take care of themselves when they are not in school.

"Child care facilities are available but are not always affordable for many families," said Norine Barnes, a child and family development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

She describes the situation of growing numbers of children caring for themselves as a phenomenon, not as a problem. Barnes said some parents feel guilty about leaving their children alone because they mistakenly think they are the only ones with this type of arrangement.

In fact, Mississippi has an estimated 164,000 to 237,000 children who care for themselves when not in school.

School-age children make up 45 percent of all children under age 18, or about 26 million children nationwide. Eighteen to 26 percent of these children stay at home alone for part of each weekday, research shows. This means 4.6 million to 6.7 million children in the country are latchkey children.

Very often, Barnes said, parents do not want other people to know their children are home alone, either because they feel guilty about the child not being with an adult or because they fear for the child's safety.

But children caring for themselves is not new. As the country began to change from an agrarian society to an industrial society fewer parents were at home or nearby to care for their children. Extended family members living closeby could help care for the children.

Now many families move around and are not close to extended family.

"For many situations self-care is an adequate solution," she said. "Many children will thrive on the opportunity to care for themselves."

Barnes neither recommends or condemns self-care for children.

"It depends intirely on a child's ability and personality and the area in which a child lives," she said. "Safety is a big consideration for those in high-crime areas."

For those parents with children caring for themselves she provided the following guidelines:

Have an agreed-upon schedule for the time the child is alone. The schedule may include homework, TV, chores, preparing a snack, games or caring for a pet.

Decide if friends will or will not be allowed to come over.

"Having more than one child unsupervised can sometimes increase the possibility of accidents," Barnes said.

Decide if the child can play outside.

"Many parents don't want their children playing outside because of safety reasons and because they are afraid neighbors will realize their child is home alone," she said.

Decide if the child can go to other places on the way home from school or if the child must go directly home.

Most parents want a child to call upon arriving home," she said. If possible the parent should call home one time later on. Most children will take this as a sign of parental concern, she said.

When parents come home, they should spend time with the child and ask about the child's time alone. This isn't just to check up on the child, she said.

"It's also showing interest in the child and checking to make sure the child continues to be happy with the arrangement," Barnes said. "If a child is unhappy or fearful the arrangement should be changed."

When siblings stay home together, rules for group and individual behavior must be established and there should be a lot of discussion about the time alone when parents come home.

"One child will be left in charge, but yet that child cannot be left with all the responsibility," she said.

"After all, the one left in charge is still a child also."

Make the house as burglarproof as possible.

Tell the child not to go into the house if the door is ajar, if a window is broken or if anything else looks unusual.

Every child should know what to do in case of an emergency and how and when to call the police and fire department. Being prepared helps reduce a child's fears.

Have at least one adult in the neighborhood your child can turn to in time of need.

Outstanding volunteers to receive service awards

Some of Mississippi's outstanding volunteers, including Mrs. Ina Piazza of Bay St. Louis, will be recognized for their efforts to make life better for many others during the 10th annual Voluntary Action Fair April 28 at Jackson's Holiday Inn Downtown.

The highlight of the fair will be the presentation of 46 Distinguished Service Awards to individuals, organizations, businesses and industry for their volunteer efforts.

The selections committee chose winners from throughout the state in 11 categories from more than 200 nominations.

The Voluntary Action Fair is sponsored by the Office of Voluntary Citizen Participation of the Department of Human Development, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

This year's fair will be part of the two-day Southeast Regional Conference on Voluntary Action and Citizen Participation April 28-29.

Mrs. Piazza does Veterans Administration Hospital volunteer work for the Red Cross, is in charge of Hancock County emergency relief and helped establish the Hancock County Food Bank.

She is a member of Hancock County Community Services Planning Council.

CCD students present Pearlington Easter event

The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine classes of St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Pearlington presented an Easter program Sunday, April 12 depicting the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus. The students recited poetry, read Scriptures, and sang songs which stressed how Jesus gave his life for love of all mankind.

The program was followed by a fried chicken lunch also sponsored by the CCD classes.

Chemical-free graduation parties can help save teenage lives

Motor vehicle accidents after graduation parties often result in deaths or permanent injuries for teenagers, but chemical-free parties can be a factor in curtailing these tragedies, according to the Highway Safety Division (HSD), Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs. "Each year, approximately 46 Mississippi teenagers are killed in alcohol- or drug-related crashes, and nearly 60 percent of all teens fatally injured in highway accidents have alcohol in their blood streams," said Billy Terrell, HSD director.

"To help prevent this needless loss of lives, Project Graduation, a program promoting alcohol-free and drug-free parties for graduating students, was initiated in Mississippi four years ago with a pilot program at Jackson's Province High School. Since then, various high schools across the state have staged Project Graduation parties.

"One reason for the emphasis upon graduation parties," Terrell said, "is that sometimes teenagers who previously did not drink alcoholic beverages or use dangerous drugs yield to peer pressure at these parties. This is a particularly bad time for a teenager to feel left out, and the individual may be willing to pay virtually any price to gain peer approval.

"We encourage as many high schools as possible to stage Project Graduation parties this spring," he said.

Materials and other Project Graduation assistance may be obtained by contacting Margaret Graham, Highway Safety Division special projects coordinator, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, 301 W. Pearl St., Jackson 39203, phone 949-2205.

Nick Boyet, altar boy at St. Joseph's, portrayed Jesus as teacher and savior.

The awards are presented to junior and senior Air Force ROTC cadets who are in the upper one-fourth of their aerospace studies and who have demonstrated outstanding leadership, character and citizenship.

More than 1,000 awards were presented by the university's nine colleges and Army and Air Force ROTC programs during the daylong celebration.

Gulf Park students design Ingalls program

LONG BEACH—Two University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Coast students have designed and implemented a computer program that is improving pipe fabrication at the sprawling Ingalls Shipbuilding complex in Pascagoula.

USM-Gulf Coast graduate Ronald Mase and Gulf Park senior Kermit Hudson developed a personal computer program two years ago to make full use of the pipe fabrication shop's equipment and personnel.

In July 1986, Ingalls executives began to look for ways to improve the overall output of the shop. One solution involved implementation of a computer program, which would simulate every operation within the shop and measure the manpower and time necessary for specific tasks.

Mase and Hudson's computer program, named SHAM (Shipbuilding Automation Model), was chosen for the job.

Since implementation of the computer study, Ingalls officials reported that the program has improved its operating methods and production capabilities. The program also has helped Ingalls in its competition with other shipbuilding industry companies for new construction work and better management of resources.

Both Mase and Hudson have been involved in other computer-related projects. Mase is currently working on a project to develop a computer program for the Ingalls Shipbuilding complex.

Social Security number betters chances of summer employment

Young people who intend to look for summer work and who do not have a Social Security number should apply for their numbers now, said Thomas Dyson, executive director, Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

Six to eight weeks are needed to acquire a number after first making application, Dyson advised.

"Even though our Job Service office does not require applicants to have a Social Security number, it is one of the first things an employer asks for," he said, adding, "Young people not having numbers will be at a serious disadvantage in this year's competitive summer job market."

Having a Social Security number assures credit toward future Social Security benefits, he noted. Losing credit for even a few dollars in earnings could result in the loss of valuable benefits later.

Dyson reminded young people that there is no minimum age requirement for obtaining a Social Security number.

Applicants for a first Social Security card may request the necessary forms from the Social Security Administration office in Gulfport by calling 1-800-2900.

Original or certified copy of birth certificate and one other document for identification purposes such as report card, shot record, voter registration card, etc. must be returned with the application.

The documents will be returned to the applicant, an office spokesperson noted.

The Gulfport office is located on the second floor of No. 1 Government Plaza Building, 200 13th Ave., Gulfport, Miss. 39502.

Office hours are 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Hours of the office are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturdays and 10 a.m. to noon on Sundays at Friendship Park, U.S. 90.

The children visited the park recently after a walking tour of some of the local public buildings, including city hall, Hancock Bank, Hancock County Justice Facility, Hancock County Courthouse and Hancock County Justice Court. During a picnic in the park after the tour, the students received a surprise visit from police and fire department officers, who let them inspect a fire truck and patrol car. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

State to administer scholarships

Mississippi high school seniors will soon be able to participate in a new, federally-funded scholarship program.

The first annual Robert C. Byrd Honors Scholarship Program will award scholarships of $1,500 each to 60 college-bound seniors. The program, named for the long-time West Virginia legislator, will be administered through the State Department of Education.

Scholarships will be awarded based upon academic achievement and the promise of continued academic achievement. Financial need will not be considered. Students will be judged on ACT scores, grade point averages, honors and awards, extracurricular participation, and an essay. Students are also required to submit a high school transcript with their application.

A five-member committee representing teachers, administrators, parents, counselors, and school boards will choose 12 scholarship winners for each of the state's five congressional districts. Students in any of Mississippi's high schools are eligible.

YOUR RIGHTS IN RESTAURANTS

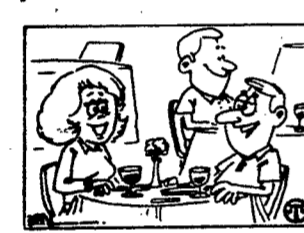

Americans love to eat out. The National Restaurant Association estimates that Americans spent more than $128 billion during 1965 in more than 300,000 U.S. restaurants. And the average American dines out more than 150 times each year!

Despite the diversity of choice in all those restaurants, customers' needs remain constant—we all want good food, service and atmosphere to enjoy our meals. Yet most of us have been disappointed dining out at least once, a disturbing experience when you consider the anticipation of a great meal. After all, as George Bernard Shaw wrote, "There is no love sincerer than the love of food." How, then, do we avoid the letdown of a bad restaurant experience?

"Restaurant customers have certain rights that come with the price of their meals," says LA Dodge Manager Tommy Lasorda, baseball celebrity and renowned eater. "As customers, we are permitted certain luxuries, and by exercising those rights, we can guide almost any restaurant meal to our personal satisfaction."

Lasorda cites the common example of food served under- or over-cooked. "Some people are embarrassed to send food back and would rather eat it than make a fuss. I disagree. It's worth an extra few minutes to get your money's worth. You don't buy clothes that don't fit and you shouldn't eat food that doesn't make you smile. It is as simple as that!"

Lasorda, known throughout baseball and around the country as an avid visitor of restaurants, offers restaurant tips in his recently-penned brochure, TOMMY

LASORDA'S GUIDE TO DINING OUT. He notes that waiters and waitresses "can make or break your meal," so do your part to establish good rapport with your server. "A waiter who anticipates a tip will usually work a bit harder to please you," says Lasorda. "I expect good service from the moment I walk in the door, however, and feel comfortable complaining to the maitre d' or manager if necessary."

The guide features tips on choosing restaurants, ordering food, dining alone, restaurant etiquette, tipping and more. (Readers can get a copy free of charge by writing: LASORDA/DINING GUIDE, Box 3376, Grand Central Station, New York, NY 10163 or by calling 800-645-4777.)

Lasorda is a fan of buffets and salad bars ("I stop eating when my arms tire"), endorses calling ahead for reservations, and encourages customers to send gratuities back to the chef before the meal is cooked. "Like every other thing else," Lasorda says, "there is a right way and a wrong way to eat out. The right way is to do whatever makes you feel comfortable. Sit back and enjoy!"

Ronald McDonald House

During March and April you'll help raise money for your local Ronald McDonald House and Ronald McDonald Children's Charities, each time you purchase Scott paper products.

The first Ronald McDonald House was built in Philadelphia in 1974, with love. Today, there are over 100 Ronald McDonald Houses providing support for families of seriously ill children. Ronald McDonald House is a program of Ronald McDonald Children's Charities, which was established in memory of Ray A. Kroc, founder of McDonald's Corporation — to support projects that directly benefit children. McDonald's thanks Scott Paper Co., and all of you, the people who continue to help keep Ronald McDonald House and Ronald McDonald Children's Charities going strong. Thanks for helping us raise over $1,000,000 last year!

Two pizzas for one special price

Domino's Pizza Doubles is two pizzas for one special price. You can choose from two sizes of Domino's Pizza Doubles. Two 14", which is 24 slices, or two 10", which is 12 slices.

You can have two 10" 8 slice pizzas for $8.99 plus tax and 99¢ for each additional two pizza topping. Prices do not include sales tax.

The LARGE pizza Doubles is an exceptionally good buy. Two 14" pizzas are almost exactly twice as large as two 10" pizzas, so the LARGE Doubles gives you almost 100% more pizza for under 60% additional cost.

Mix & Match
Your two Doubles pizzas do not have to be identical. For example, if you order a pizza with two toppings, and the other (same size) pizza with four toppings, you will be charged the price of a three topping Doubles order.

Quality Ingredients
Our pizzas are custom made with only the freshest ingredients (never frozen) and 100% real cheese.

Full Portions
On a 10" pizza we use 20-22 slices of pepperoni. On a 14" pizza we use 39-41 slices of pepperoni, not skimping portions like other stores.

Flavor
We use nine secret herbs and spices in our sauce to give your pizza a delicious, distinctive Domino's Pizza taste.

Hot Pizza
We use a crush proof, corrugated insulated pizza box (not a bag) with each and every pizza. When Domino's Pizza delivers we use specially designed insulated pouches on each and every order.

Free Delivery
Your pizza from Domino's Pizza will be delivered to your door by our friendly professional drivers at no additional cost to you. For 26 years we have never charged for delivery.

One woman for hours to relief

BY EDNA BARNETTE
A grateful private citizen established a special fund to help people who need immediate assistance but cannot obtain it through other agencies. According to Rhonda Patton, who for the fund, it came from one woman's plea for a place for herself and her children to live.

Once established through a account at Hancock Bank emergency relief fund was after Bill Kenny, a local trooper killed in an on-duty car accident two decades ago. Patton said she chose because she had "always felt" it appropriate to name something after him, because "he was a giving person."

The fund's immediate objective is to raise $440 for a woman who lives in Hancock County Jail where Patton is clerk, because she could find no immediate elsewhere.

The $440 will rent a motel for the woman, a divorced wife with no income, and her six children who range in age from six to 16. "Once we help her get other agencies like St. Vincent de Paul can come in to help her for explained.

She said the woman was only $100 per month for child but that her former husband recently arrested on a charge of child abuse.

Patton said the woman had been in jail with five other people and had been told she leave or the whole group would be their housing.

She found that government housing has a wait that is at times six months.

In addition agencies that depend on charitable contributions their existence could prove and clothing, but as far as was concerned, could on with rent or utility payments people who already had housing.

"They depend on charitable contributions and can't help place to live, but these age come in later and help them what they have," Patton said. "We're all sitting here things like contributing relief in Ethiopia, but I remember people need to know that people right here at home our help."

"The saying that charity home is absolutely true. We remember that."
